

Game Notes for the 2006 East-West Shrine Game presented by AT&T

NCAA Career Record Holders

Mike Hass of Oregon State, recognized as one of the best wide receivers in college football, became the first player in Pac-10 history and only the tenth player in NCAA history to have three 1,000-plus yard seasons. Hass lead the nation in receiving yards per game and total receiving yards.

The second leading receiver in the nation in yards per game, Greg Jennings of Western Michigan, will highlight the East receivers. Jennings' 1,259 yards receiving included an 11-catch 244-yard 4-touchdown performance against Ball State.

Dontrell Moore of New Mexico, who finished the season ranked tenth in rushing yards, became only the sixth player in NCAA history to rush for 1,000-plus yards all four years.

Taurean Henderson of Texas Tech was only the third player in NCAA history to have 3,000 career-rushing yards and 2,000 career-receiving yards. He broke the old record (262) of receptions by a running back with his 303 career receptions.

A Perfect Season

Missouri State kicker Jon Scifres went 15-15 on field goals during the 2004 season. This set a new national record for most field goals made in a season without a miss.

When A Good Offense Hurts You

USC punter Tom Malone had the highest punting average (49 yards) in the nation in 2003 by over a yard. However, he missed out on the national punting title because the USC offense kept him 5 punts short of the NCAA required minimum.

Canadian Players

The East-West Shrine Game is the only post-season college football game to include students from both the Canada and US. Since 1985, one player from the Canada West Universities Athletic Association is chose to represent the West Squad, and one player from the other three conferences is chose to represent the East Squad. This year, Andy Fantuz, a wide receiver from the University of Western Ontario, will be a member of the East Squad. Daniel Federkeil, a defensive lineman from the University of Calgary, will be on the West.

Texas Natives

This year's rosters have a Texas flavor with a number of Texas natives. The West Squad includes 15 players originally from Texas while there are five Texans on the East Squad.

Both squads include San Antonio natives. Quincy Butler, a defensive back from TCU, is a graduate of Roosevelt High School, Michael Toudouze, an offensive lineman also from TCU, is a graduate of East Central High School, Gilbert Harris, a fullback from Arizona, is a graduate of Churchill High School and Fredric Brock, a linebacker from Texas Southern, is a graduate of Cornerstone Christian High School will all play for the West Squad. Dhyan Tarver, a team captain at Army, is a graduate of Marshall High School and will play on the East Squad.

Dome Sweet Dome

The Alamodome is practically like home for Nebraska's Cory Ross. He played here in the 2003 MasterCard Alamo Bowl where he set the record for most rushing attempts (37) while rushing for 138 yards and tied the record for most rushing touchdowns (2) at the Alamo Bowl. Ross returned to the Alamodome with the Cornhuskers for the recent 2005 MasterCard Alamo Bowl where he had another outstanding performance rushing for 161 yards and a touchdown in the Huskers 32-28 upset win over Michigan.

Other players returning to the Alamodome include Ross' Husker teammate Le Kevin Smith (2003 and 2005 MasterCard Alamo Bowls), Gilbert Harris (played in Dome while at Churchill High School), Jonathan Orr, Donovan Raiola and Brandon Williams (Wisconsin, 2002 MasterCard Alamo Bowl), (John Huston, Anthony Schlegel, Rob Sims and Nate Salley (Ohio State, 2004 MasterCard Alamo Bowl).

Old Teammates

Frostee Rucker of USC and Chris Chester of Oklahoma will be teammates on the West Squad for the East-West Shrine Game. But they've been teammates before. Both Rucker and Chester played together in high school for the Tustin (CA) High School Tillers.

Rhodes Scholar

Brown's Nick Hartigan is more than just a great football player. He received a final interview to be a Rhodes Scholar.

Giving Up Eligibility

Danieal Manning, a junior from Abilene Christian University, received five All-American selections and is forgoing his final year of eligibility to declare for the NFL Draft. He finished the season with 49 tackles, two for a loss, one sack, three interceptions, four pass breakups, two forced fumbles, one fumble recovery, and three blocked kicks. Cory Rodgers, the top wide receiver and top kick returner at TCU, also declared for the draft.

Aggies in the East-West Shrine Game

With Dennis Franchione as head coach of the West Squad, he'll be able to call on some familiar faces. Aggies QB Reggie McNeal, S Jaxson Appel, WR Jason Carter and DL Johnny Jolly have all been named to the West Squad. Coach Fran is not the first A&M head coach that has coached in the East-West Shrine Game. RC Slocum was the head coach of the West Squad in 1997 and an associate coach in 1993. Slocum has served on the player selection committee for the East-West Shrine Game for the past two years.

Full Circle

Tarvaris Jackson will begin and end his career with Houston Nutt as his head coach. Jackson began his career at Arkansas under Nutt. After an injury, he battled for the starting quarterback job with Matt Jones. Jones ultimately won the starting position and now plays at wide receiver for the Jacksonville Jaguars. Jackson transferred to Alabama State where he was one of the top quarterbacks in the conference. As a member of the East Squad, he will end his career back under Coach Nutt.

A New Venue

With the East-West Shrine Game moving to San Antonio to get a more central location for this national all-star game, this represents only the second time in 80 years that the game will be played outside of San Francisco. The first time was on January 3, 1942 when the game was played in New Orleans. Western Defense Command officials would not allow the game to be played on the west coast so soon after the attacks on Pearl Harbor.

About the Presenting Sponsor

The San Antonio-based company is proud to welcome the East-West Shrine game and to play a part in touching the lives of children across the country as the game's new presenting sponsor. AT&T Inc. is one of the world's largest telecommunications holding companies and is the largest in the United States. Operating globally under the AT&T brand (the company results from SBC Communications Inc.'s recent acquisition of AT&T Corp. and its decision to retain the AT&T name), AT&T companies are recognized as the leading worldwide providers of IP-based communications services to business and as leading U.S. providers of high-speed DSL Internet, local and long distance voice, and directory publishing and advertising services. Additional information about AT&T Inc. and AT&T products and services is available at www.TheNewATT.com.

Super Results

In last year's Super Bowl, 17 players were East-West Shrine Game alums including Teddy Bruschi and Tom Brady. Shrine alums dot the rosters of the four teams remaining in the 2006 NFL Playoffs including Carolina's Steve Smith, Denver's Jake Plummer and Pittsburgh's Antwan Randle El.

Road to the NFL

Of the 95 players in last year's East-West Shrine Game, 90 were on opening day NFL rosters. Over 300 East-West Shrine Game alums are currently on NFL rosters.

East-West Shrine Game Hall of Fame

This year's inductees into the East-West Hall of Fame are Raymond Berry, Joe Greene, Mike Haynes and Bob Lilly. All four of this year's Hall of Fame Inductees are members of the NFL Hall of Fame as well. The East-West Induction will take place at the Players Banquet at the Alamodome on Friday, January 20. The players will also be recognized during the game at halftime.

Raymond Berry

When Raymond Berry was drafted out of Southern Methodist University in 1954, he wasn't even selected until the 20th round by the Baltimore Colts. He was born with one leg shorter than the other and had to wear special shoes in order to run. But it was Berry who surprised everyone when he went on to become one of the Colts best receivers.

With Johnny Unitas as the Colts quarterback, Berry went on to set career records for receptions, yards and touchdowns during his thirteen year career. He led the league in receptions for three straight years, played in six Pro Bowls and was inducted into the NFL Hall of Fame in 1973.

Joe Greene

"Mean" Joe Greene played his college football at North Texas State in the late 1960s. He was the number one draft pick in 1969 when he was selected by the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was named NFL Defensive Player of the Year in both 1972 and 1974. He helped lead the Steelers to dominance in the 1970s as part of the "Steel Curtain" and played in four Super Bowls, six AFC title games, and 10 Pro Bowls. He was inducted into the NFL Hall of Fame in 1987.

Mike Haynes

Haynes was the fifth player overall to be drafted in 1976 when he was selected by the Patriots. Haynes was born in Denison, Texas and played cornerback at Arizona State University. During his time in the NFL, he split his career between the Patriots (1976-1982) and the Los Angeles Raiders (1983-1989). He was invited to the Pro Bowl his rookie season after leading the AFC with 608 yards on 45 punt returns. He played in the Pro Bowl another eight times during his career. He was named All-Pro four times and All-AFC eight times. He joined the NFL Hall of Fame in 1997.

Bob Lilly

Lilly, a defensive tackle out of TCU and a consensus All-American, was the first –ever draft choice for the Dallas Cowboys. When he was inducted into the NFL Hall of Fame in 1980, he also became the Dallas Cowboys first Hall of Famer. During his career with the Cowboys (1961-1974), Lilly played in 11 Pro Bowls, five NFL/NFC title games, and two Super Bowls while only missing one game during his 14-year career.

NFL Hall of Fame

Including this year's four East-West Hall of Fame inductees, 57 East-West Shrine Game alums have gone on to the NFL Hall of Fame including Walter Payton, John Elway, Roger Staubach, Gale Sayers, Doak Walker, Randy White, Dick Butkus and Mike Ditka.

Other Notable Shrine Alums

Randall Cunningham, Dan Dierdorf, Tony Dungy, Eddie George, Brett Favre, Frank Gifford, President Gerald Ford, Paul Hornung, Bruno Nagurski, Jake Plummer, Shannon Sharpe, Lawrence Taylor and Kellen Winslow.

East-West Shrine Game: Timeline

The First Game

The East-West Shrine Game originated out of baseball games between the Shriners and the Elks. For several years, the Shriners and the Elks got together to play baseball games to raise money for their respective charities. Since there were baseball games happening all the time around California, they thought a football game would have wider appeal and would be a better way to raise money. They quickly realized there were too many risks in having middle aged men running around hitting each other.

It was Capt. E. Jack Spaulding who came up with the idea of having squads representing the best college football players from the East and West Coast compete against each other. One of the nobles recommended that all proceeds go to benefit the local Shriners Hospital, and the East-West Shrine Game was born. They still had to overcome issues of maintaining amateur status and ensuring no one got paid for the sake of the NCAA.

The Shriners were able to get "Navy" Bill Ingram, the head football coach at Indiana University, to organize and coach the East Squad. After not hearing from Ingram for months, the Shriners began to fear that there would be no East-West Shrine Game because there was no East Squad. It was only after a story ran in a Chicago newspaper that Bill Ingram and a group of college all-stars had boarded a train for San Francisco for a college football game that they were sure the game would even happen.

Although many predicted the venture would fail, the first game drew a crowd of 25,000. California fans were able to watch players they had only read about in the paper fighting a battle on the field. Some of the best players in the nation including Brick Muller (considered one of the top football players and athletes of his generation.), Scoop Carlson, Tut Imlay, George Latham, Pesky Sprott, and Texas A&M's Buck Bailey.

Brick Muller scored the only touchdown of the game on a pass from Tut Imlay. Coaches played in the game as well, and Ingram helped lead the East Squad rally that fell just short. The game ended with the West Squad victorious 6-0.

East-West Through The Years

1925 The first touchdown scored in East-West Shrine Game history was a 27-yard pass by California's Tut Imlay to Golden Bears' teammate and All-American Harold (Brick) Muller, which turned out to be the only points scored in the inaugural game, a 6-0 West victory on December 26, 1925. It was the only touchdown pass Imlay ever threw in a football game. Texas A&M's Buck Bailey picked off a pass on the East's final possession to thwart their comeback hopes.

1927 The West made it two in a row with a 7-3 victory over the East on January 1, 1927. Trailing 3-0 in the third quarter, West quarterback "Wild Bill" Kelly completed an 80 yard touchdown pass to Russ Sweet. Kelly also served as the holder on the successful extra point and intercepted a pass sealing the victory in the fourth quarter. Babe Ruth, who would hit 60 home runs that year, attended the game.

1935 The West goes ahead 19-0 in the first half and holds on for a 19-13 victory. Outstanding player honors will split between USC's Irvine "Cotton" Warburton and Western Maryland's Bill Shepherd. Michigan's All-American center (and future President) Gerald Ford played for the East.

1942 The 17th East-West Shrine Game was played at Tulane Stadium in New Orleans, La., on Jan. 3 after Western Defense Command officials refused to allow the game to be played on the West Coast because of the attack on Pearl Harbor less than a month earlier.

1950 SMU's Kyle Rote (a graduate of San Antonio Jefferson High School) led the West to a 16-7 victory snapping a three game win streak for the East squad. Despite suffering a cracked rib in the first half, Rote ran 28 times for 130 yards.

1958 Sam Williams of Michigan State wreaked havoc in the backfield by sacking West quarterbacks six times and helping the East snap a two-game slide with a 26-14 win.

1979 Michigan running back Russell Davis set several East-West Shrine Game records as he rushed for 199 yards, six touchdowns and scored 36 points to help the East team set its own scoring record in a 56-17 rout of the West.

2002 Clemson's Woody Dantzler threw for 102 yards and a touchdown in the second quarter and George Godsey of Georgia Tech added 112 yards passing in the third to help the East set a Shrine Game record with 428 passing yards in a 21-13 loss to the West.

2006 San Antonio hosts its first game and signs AT&T as presenting sponsor renaming the game East-West Shrine Game presented by AT&T.

West Squad With Bragging Rights

The West Squad has won the East-West Shrine Game 42 times. The East Squad has won 33 times. There have been five ties. The West Team won in 2004 with a final score of 28-7. The East Team won in 2005 with a final score of 45-27.

History Lesson

The Rose Bowl is the "Granddaddy" of all the post-season college games with 92 game played, while the East-West Shrine Game will kick off its 81st addition on Saturday, January 21. Other long-standing post-season college football games include the Sugar and Sun Bowls (both have played 72 games) and the Senior Bowl that has its 56th game next week.

The Shriners Hospitals for Children

The Shriners Hospitals for Children were born when Past Imperial Potentate Freeland Kendrick decided that the Shriners should unite in some form of humanitarian work and created the idea of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. He presented it to the Imperial Council in 1920.

Forest Adair gave his famous and inspiring "Bubble Speech" and the resolution was passed. After a year of research, a board of trustees was elected with the ability to purchase sites and build the hospitals.

These hospitals were to be located in major cities and railroad centers for easy accessibility for parents and children. The hospitals were to serve patients under the age of 14 that needed orthopedic care and were unable to pay. Since that time, the number of hospitals has grown to 22 and now provide care free of charge to any child under the age of 18.

Over 770,000 children have been helped in the the hospitals' 83 year history. The Shriners Hospitals for Children now specialize not only in orthopedic care but also burn care and spinal cord injuries.

In fact, the Shriners Hospitals include the only spinal cord injury units specifically for children. Since the hospitals have opened, over $7 billion has been spent to maintain them and the Shriners provide $1.7 million in free care per day.
